Adversity causes some men to break; while others break records

Well, well, well, I must admit that as much as I am a West Indies Cricket die-hard supporter, that never in my wildest imagination did I believe that Cricket West Indies would have beaten England on August 29, 2017. This is especially so after the humiliating defeat that Cricket West Indies received at the hands of the potent England Cricket Team one week earlier. It was heart breaking. It was sad. It deflated West Indian Supporters. It was like a funeral procession when Cricket West Indies lost 19 wickets in one day during the first Test Match against England.

Rev. Dr. Cortroy Jarvis
Chairman of PEC

The saying is true. Adversity causes some men to break, while others break records. It was a total team effort. Yes, Kraigg Brathwaite and Shai Hope did the unimaginable, but the bowlers did their part especially in England's first innings to have kept Cricket West Indies in the game. What a feat by this young Cricket West Indies Team. Kraigg Brathwaite scored a century in the first innings and 95 in the second innings. What was more remarkable was to see SHAI HOPE scoring a century in the first innings and a century in the second innings. He looked splendid. He looked so assured. He was not ruffled by anything that came his way. He had a goal and worked his way towards it. Hope hit 118 not out, his second hundred of the match after his first-innings 147 to become the first batsman to score hundreds in both innings of a first-class match at Headingley, England, since they started to play cricket there 127 years ago.

Set a seemingly unlikely 322 to win after half-centuries from Mark Stoneman, Joe Root, Dawid Malan, Ben Stokes and Moeen Ali, Windies, who had lost 19 wickets in a day to lose the first Test at Edgbaston by an innings and 209 runs, batted with great attitude all along. Most remarkable of all was Hope, who hadn't hit a hundred in any of his previous 11 Tests.

Victory gave Windies its first Test match win in England since 2000. Truly, while some break under the weight of adversity, OTHERS BREAK RECORDS. (Photo below is Shai Hope).

A young Journalist, eager to land his first job, found what seemed to be the perfect opportunity. He called the newspaper and was told that applicants were being interviewed at 10 a.m. the following day.

He worked all day to prepare both his resume' and portfolio of writing samples. Upon his arrival early the next morning, to his dismay he found that nine other would-be reporters had arrived even earlier. He took his place in the line and kept an anxious watch on his competitors. He recognized several of them and knew their reputation. From all outward appearances, his prospects did not look good.

Rather than give up in the face of this adverse situation, however, he wrote a little note and handed it to the secretary, telling her it was very important her boss see it at once. When the boss read the note, he found himself eager to meet the young man who had written it. It read: "Dear Sir, I'm the young man who is tenth in line. Please don't make any decisions until you see me".

When faced with adversity, there 's nearly always a creative way through it, around it, over it, or under it. Most adverse situations can be resolved. Be creative in facing your troubles today. There is a way. The writer of Proverbs 24:10 declares: "If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small".

When we find ourselves in a rut, we do well to ask ourselves these three questions:

1. Is this rut of my own making? We tend to choose a rut because its comfortable and requires no risk. To get out of a rut, we need to make new choices.
2. Whom am I following? We adopt certain patterns in our lives because someone has taught them to us directly or by example. Make sure that you are following good leaders; don't simply follow the crowd.
3. Where am I going? Ruts develop when we lose a sense of vision for our lives; when we are just travelling through life and not attempting to arrive at a destination. Goals take us somewhere!

The Bible is replete with examples of men and women who stood tall in the midst of adversity. For this article, we will examine Gideon.

The book of Hebrews lists Gideon among the heroes of faith in Israel's history (Hebrews 11:32). The exploits of men like Gideon, who lived more than 3,000 years ago, are recorded because "whatever things were written before were written for our learning, that we through the patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope" (Romans 15:4).

The incident in his life most familiar to Bible readers was a spiritual exercise in overcoming seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

In the Book of Judges we see that God was preparing Gideon for battle against numerically overwhelming odds: "You have 32, 000 soldiers, Gideon, and that's far too many to do battle with the Medianites. I don't want anyone to think you'll win the coming battle by your own might. Tell your army that, if any among them are fearful, they are free to go" (Judges 7:2-3, paraphrased).

Gideon did as God instructed. He offered his men an honorable discharge from their duties, and 22,000 quickly disappeared over the horizon, headed for home.

Gideon looked around. One moment he thought he could count on 32,000 Israelite volunteers, the next he was left with only 10,000. Considering that the Midianite army numbered at least 135,000 (Judges 8:10), Gideon's diminished force might have been cause for concern.

Gideon's shrinking army

Gideon was in for another shock. God told him: "Gideon, you still have too many men to fight the Midianites. Take your remaining men down to the water and let them drink. There's more sorting to do, and those I select will do battle. But the rest, like those before them, should also return home" (Judges 7:4, paraphrased).

Ten thousand Israelites welcomed a cool, refreshing drink of water. The overwhelming majority-9,700-got down on their knees, placed their mouths to the water and drank. A relative handful, 300, crouched and scooped water to their mouths with their hands.

These 300, God said, would make up his army (Judges 7:4-8). God hand-picked Gideon's army: 300 men whose most distinguishing characteristic was not in proving themselves as mighty men of valor, but that they drank water from a position different from the others.

From 32,000 to 300, Gideon's army became only a fraction of what it had been. Surely God knew what He was doing, didn't He? Gideon might have wondered whether they all might be better off going home. Had God forgotten that Gideon's little band of soldiers would face an experienced army outnumbering them 450 to one? From all appearances, this situation made no sense.

God explained to Gideon His purpose for allowing him such a small army to battle the physically and numerically superior Midianites. He was not about to allow Israel to be able to boast that her own strength had saved her (Judges 7:2; 1 Corinthians 1:27-29). That honor would go to God alone. But God would work through Gideon.

What led up to this fateful situation?

Among the judges who ruled Israel, Gideon was one of the most faithful and brave. Yet, when God appointed him to save Israel from the Midianites, his comments at the time showed that he considered himself the least likely to succeed: "O my Lord, how can I save Israel? Indeed my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house" (Judges 6:15). Yet God's angel spoke to the contrary: "The Lord is with you, you mighty man of valor!" (Judges 6:12).

Is this a biblical oxymoron? Was God blind to Gideon's fear and uncertainty? Not really. Looking to the future, God saw Gideon's character after God inspired, bolstered and worked with him. God already viewed Gideon as a mighty warrior, although Gideon saw himself as a mere man with all his attendant weaknesses. He was, after all, hiding in the winepress while threshing his crop of wheat for fear of the Midianites when the angel appeared to him (Judges 6:11).

Haven't we found ourselves in similar situations?

Many centuries later the apostle Paul wrote that God is more concerned with our spiritual strength than our physical power. Paul illustrated this with his own example, revealing that he had requested that God heal him from a physical debilitation. However, God's response to Paul showed that He would not heal him; it would ultimately be better for Paul and others that he not be healed.

"And He said to me, 'My grace is sufficient for you, for My strength is made perfect in [your human] weakness' ... For when I am weak, then I am [spiritually] strong" (2 Corinthians 12:9-10). God understands the human heart and mind, that it is all too easy for us to take credit for what is really God's doing. When we recognize that, God can use us more effectively, as both Paul and Gideon learned.

As far as Gideon was concerned, he was the least likely to become successful, especially as a warrior trying to lead a quarreling and bickering nation of Israelites.

Proof of God's intentions

Gideon requested proof from God that He would be with him. Gideon cooked meat and bread and presented them to God's messenger.

Hymn of the Month for September, 2017

by Rev. Dr. Mikie Roberts, Provincial Director of Music

The start of a new academic year comes with a degree of excitement on the part of teachers, students and parents. After the long lazy days of summer, learners of all ages will embark on the journey of academic growth and continued development over the next 9 – 10 months. As we begin this new school year, our hymn for the month of September is # 77, My dear Redeemer and my Lord which was written in 1709 by Isaac Watts. The name of the tune appointed is Berkshire.

The central message of this hymn is this: the life of Jesus demonstrates the perfect example of a human life that is lived in total obedience to the will of God the Father. What we see in the Gospels is a life that was filled with the characteristics that we in our walk with God should also emulate. They include embracing truth, having a zeal for the things of God, showing love and meekness and possessing a deep commitment to a life of prayer. The closing stanza echoes the prayer for us as followers of Jesus to imitate the pattern that has been set before us. By so doing, our lives will mirror the image of Jesus himself.

Below are the words and music for the hymn of the month for September:

My dear Redeemer, and my Lord,
I read my duty in thy word;
But in thy life the law appears
Drawn out in living characters.

2 Such was thy truth, and such thy zeal,
Such deference to thy Father's will,
Such love, and meekness so divine,
I would transcribe and make them mine.

3 Cold mountains and the midnight air
Witnessed the fervour of thy prayer;
The desert thy temptations knew,
Thy conflict and thy victory too.

4 Be thou my pattern; make me bear
More of thy gracious image here;
Then God the Judge shall own my name
Among the followers of the Lamb.

Synode

21 - 25 Augustus 2017

THEMA: BRENG ZE THUIS
"Bring Them Home"

The Synod of the Moravian Church in Suriname was held from August 20 - 25, 2017. It was a time when the Church evaluated its mission and ministry as it serves in a multi-religious, multi-cultural, multi-ethnic society. I was moved by a number of things in Suriname. However, of great significance there are (2) two Chinese Moravian Churches; at least (3) three Indian Moravian Churches and several Javanese Moravian Churches. While the majority of Churches are of Afro-centric nature, it is of great significance to know that the Church has reached out to the different ethnic groups. It is a great place to study Gospel and Culture. (more in the next issue)

The angel told Gideon to place them on a rock, out of which fire devoured the food.

Emboldened by this event, Gideon sent messengers to the surrounding Israelite tribes to raise an army against the Midianites. But apparently he soon had second thoughts and desired more reassurance from God. God patiently allowed Gideon to choose his own proof of God's promises.

Gideon first requested that, when he left the wool of a sheep out overnight on the threshing floor, God would allow the dew to moisten only the wool, leaving the surrounding ground dry. God did as Gideon requested. But, just to make sure that God had performed the miracle, Gideon made another request of God—this one, in Gideon's mind, more difficult. He asked God to reverse the miracle and allow the dew to moisten only the surrounding ground, leaving the wool dry.

Gideon knew the wool would absorb the dew more easily than the hard ground of the threshing floor, making this an even greater miracle. Again God did as Gideon requested (Judges 6:39-40). Gideon was convinced. This was proof enough for him to trust in God's calling.

The enemy delivered

Gideon must have taken heart when 32,000 fellow Israelites answered his call for help against the Midianites. Then he was likely bewildered as God scaled down the army from 32,000 to 10,000, then further to only 300.

God reassured Gideon: "By the three hundred men who lapped I will save you, and deliver the Midianites into your hand" (Judges 7:7). To reassure Gideon further, God told him to go with his servant to the enemy camp at night to "hear what they say; and afterward your hands shall be strengthened to go down against the camp" (Judges 7:9-11).

A formidable sight appeared to Gideon's small army, for "the Midianites and Amalekites, all the people of the East, were lying in the valley as numerous as locusts; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the seashore in multitude" (Judges 7:12).

But Gideon and Purah, his servant, did as God instructed. They stealthily made their way to the edge of the enemy encampment, where they overheard an amazing exchange between two soldiers. "I have had a dream," said one. "To my surprise, a loaf of barley bread tumbled into the camp of Midian; it came to a tent and struck it so that it fell and overturned, and the tent collapsed." His companion responded, "This is nothing else but the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel! Into his hand God has delivered Midian and the whole camp" (Judges 7:13-14).

God had inspired these men to inform Gideon precisely of what God would do for him. "And so it was, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream and its interpretation, that he worshiped. He returned to the camp of Israel, and said, 'Arise, for the Lord has delivered the camp of Midian into your hand'" (Judges 7:15).

The plan was simple but brilliant: Gideon divided the 300 men into three groups, equipped each of the men with a trumpet and a pitcher covering a lighted torch. He instructed them, "When I blow the trumpet, I and all who are with me, then you also blow the trumpets on every side of the whole camp, and say, 'The sword of the Lord and of Gideon!'" (Judges 7:18).

When they were in place surrounding the Midianites' camp, Gideon and his small army blew their trumpets, shouted their battle cry, broke their pitchers and held their torches high. "When the three hundred blew the trumpets, the Lord set every man's sword against his companion throughout the whole camp; and the [enemy] army fled to Beth Acacia..." (Judges 7:22).

In the dark the Midianites panicked at the tumult of shouting, trumpet blasts and breaking pitchers and the sight of torches surrounding them. In their terror and confusion they fought and killed each other. Gideon's men emerged unscathed.

The judge who refused to be king

In spite of his fame, Gideon remained humble. When he had routed the Midianites, the Israelites wanted him to rule as a king over them. Gideon's memorable and faithful words: "I will not rule over you, nor shall my son rule over you; the Lord shall rule over you" (Judges 8:23).

Gideon's words speak well of his character. He knew that all human rulership will eventually fail, that God's rulership is the only lasting answer to mankind's problems. Perhaps he understood that the time is coming during which this will become reality: Jesus Christ will reign on earth in the Kingdom of God.

Gideon knew that only God could exercise fair judgment on mankind. The book of Judges recounts a sad litany of how inadequately man rules himself.

The book of Judges concludes with, "In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone did what was right in his own eyes" (Judges 21:25). Some have assumed that this implies that a human king was the best answer to Israel's backsliding during the days of the judges. This is not true. God makes this clear through the prophet Samuel when the Bible picks up the story of ancient Israel's history: "Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, and said to him, 'Look, you are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make for us a king to judge us like all the nations.' But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, 'Give us a king to judge us.' So Samuel prayed to the Lord. And the Lord said to Samuel, 'Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected Me, that I should not reign over them'" (1 Samuel 8:4-7).

Judges 21:25 is not advocating a human king as the solution for Israel's problems throughout the time of the book of Judges. Coupled with Samuel's experience in dealing with carnal, unconverted people, it does help us see that humans, in rejecting God's rule over them, are incapable of rightly governing themselves.

Apparently Gideon understood the ultimate importance and safety of having God as man's Ruler. He knew this was a far better outcome than being forced to endure the unpredictability and subjectivity of human nature and ingrained vanity and selfishness of human leaders. Gideon knew that God is always merciful, patient and just toward human beings; human beings are seldom so.

Gideon's humble, visionary attitude made of him a conqueror before God and a hero in the eyes of his countrymen. Gideon's example proves to us that, through the faithfulness of a few, many can be delivered and become conquerors. With God the outcome doesn't depend on human might and strength (Zechariah 4:6), because a few plus God is better than a majority without Him!

It holds true, that as we seek to "Advance the Kingdom" that adversities will come but we should never allow these to cause us to break. Rather, we should seek to persevere through the challenging times, for nothing good comes easy. The Psalmists is right on target when he declares in Psalm 30:5, "weeping may endure for the night, but Joy cometh in the morning". Rather than allowing our adversity to cause us to Break and lose hope, let us use them to propel us forward and rise above anything that will pull us down.

APPOINTMENT OF SUPERINTENDENT

The PEC makes the following announcements:

1. The Rev. Vera Waithe will step down as Superintendent of the Barbados Conference, with effect from August 31, 2017. Rev. ## Virtue of the Month: Moderation

by The Family Connection

Moderation is creating a healthy balance in your life between work and play, rest and exercise. You don't overdo or get swept away by the things you like. You use your self-discipline to take charge of your life and your time.

You are practicing moderation when you:

- Get enough of what you need, no more, no less,
- Use self-discipline to stop yourself from over things,
- Take charge of your health,
- Balance work and play in your life,
- Know your own limits and set boundaries for yourself, and
- Are content with enough.

Affirmation:

I am moderate. I am thankful and content to get what I need. I use my time and energy wisely. My life is balanced.

JOKE OF THE DAY

FBI AGENT

A rancher was minding his own business when an FBI agent came up to him and said, "We got a tip that you may be growing illegal drugs on the premises. Do you mind if I take a look around?"

The old rancher replied, "That's fine, you shouldn't go over there though." As he pointed at one of his fields.

The FBI agent snapped at him, "I'm a federal agent! I can go wherever I want!" With that he pulled out his badge and shoved it into the ranchers face.

The rancher shrugged this off and continued with his daily chores. About 15 minutes later he heard a loud scream from the field he had pointed out earlier. All of a sudden he could see the FBI agent sprinting towards him with a large bull on his heels.

The rancher rushed to the fence and yelled, "Your badge! Show your badge to the bull!"
